SPOTLIGHT

Scores 1000th Point

"I didn't feel any pressure because I didn't know it was my 1000 pts." says Angie Austin on scoring her 1000th career point. Before going into the game, Angie said she was more nervous than she usually would be, but it didn't affect her playing that night. Scoring her 1000th point was Angie's biggest success of the year so far.

As you know, Angie was crowned 1985 Homecoming Queen on December 7. She also received the most votes, which resulted in becoming Homecoming Sweetheart. She was very surprised to be both Queen and Sweetheart.

Angie plans for the future include going to college, playing more ball and becoming a teacher.

Mad Dog Picks

"Coolest Car"

This month's car belongs to Joe Reeves. Joe drives a 1979 Mercury Bobcat "Bobscoat" with a 2300, 4-banger, 4 on the floor. When asked where he got it, he replied, "From the Farmers' Bank Repo Row!" He said that his car has every luxury it can. It has 280 air conditioner (two windows down and 80 miles per hour) beer cooler, air shocks, and an ash tray. Joe said there are a few things he would change if he could, like the motor, the transmission, the tires, the body and anything else that is not mentioned. Joe said he holds the record for ramping at the Mound Drive-in of 10 feet off the front row.

Yearbooks To Be Sold

The 1986 Yearbook goes on sale February 3-7.

For the first time in seven years the yearbook has a theme, "Back to the Future". The first sixteen pages will have full color or spot color (8 of each). This will be part of the opening, highlighting the major happenings at PHS. The Broadway Revue, dances, sports, prom, graduation-- if it's big it's in the opening.

Our goal this year is to accurately present the people and events of our school in an artistic, yet logical and fair way. Each staff member is responsible for specific sections. We've already received advertising pages to proofread and returned them to the printers.

The books are $15.00. Yearbook staff members are in charge of sales. If you want a book, contact one of these people:

Mrs. Willson or Mr. Bailey,
Angie Austin, Barb Boyd,

FEATURE— Today's Teen a Victim of Stress

Today's teen has become the unwilling, unintended victim of stress--the stress born of rapid, bewildering social change and constantly rising expectations.

Society is forcing children to grow up too fast, to achieve too much in school and sports, and to except adult responsibilities before they are ready to do so. Teens are caught between trying to look good in the eyes of their peers and the eyes of their parents. When they find they must choose one or the other to please, the peers are usually chosen. Parents sometimes feel their teens are not making the right decisions as far as alcohol, drugs and sex go.

Adults should beware that teens and their relationships or dealings with other people can be as complicated and painful as adult relationships. During adolescence adults should try to help the teenager work out these conflicts. They shouldn't pry into teens' private lives, but give support and encouragement. Adults can teach teens a great deal about making decisions by the way they react under similar circumstances.

The desire to succeed is in the heart of almost every teen. It is something that is taught to them from early childhood. Most teens often try to achieve success through extra-curricular activities and or jobs.

When continual stress is concerned you have to realize the result could be some sort of physical damage. Whether it be through violence, sex, anorexia, drugs, or even suicide. Physical damage is the aspect most commonly overlooked when dealing with teenage stress. It's the part parents don't want to think about, and the part which sometimes is an everlasting hurt.

Teens don't have any idea of the physical damage stress can cause. They can find themselves causing fights, end up pregnant, or have a sexual disease. They can shoot up or get high, causing permanent damage to brain cells or become emotionally unstable, leading to suicide.

Escape is the excuse teens give. Could this be the reason for the highest ever and still increasing rate of drug and alcohol use in the nation? Yes! They are trying to escape from the pressures of school, personal relationships, parents and society. Yet it's an added pressure to get out with friends. If a teen can get drunk or high and escape for a couple of hours he feels more relaxed. Sometimes sex will have an effect on teens, but only when the mate is a steady girlfriend or boyfriend.

Teenagers' favorites are beer, wine, whiskey, and marijuana. Drinking seems to be the first choice of the teens, but marijuana is a close second.

In the three months before they were interviewed, 66 percent of the teenagers in our survey had drunk wine, beer, or whiskey while 43 percent had smoked pot.

Drinking and smoking pot seem to appeal to both male and female. Males tend to be more open about it, but the percentage of users are about equal.

Escape is the key. By working together with adults, teens can overcome these problems. If they get involved in sports, hobbies, or just how to relax, they can overcome the pressures of these effects.

On the following page is a stress test. See how vulnerable you are to stress.

How Vulnerable Are You to Stress?

The following test was developed by Psychologists Lyle H. Miller and Alma Dell Smith at Boston University Medical Center. Score each item from 1 (almost always) to 5 (never), according to how much of the time each statement applies to you.

TOTAL

To get your score, add up the figures and subtract 20. Any number over 30 indicates a vulnerability to stress. You are seriously vulnerable if your score is between 50 and 75, and extremely vulnerable if it is over 75.

TEEN FACTS

Admission of teenagers to private and psychiatric hospitals increased by 45% between 1980-84.

Two-thirds of three million teens are not getting the help they need.

Many teens are admitted for inappropriate reasons, such as conduct disorders or adolescent adjustment reactions.

Youths who really need help aren't getting it; they are being placed in these hospitals for the wrong reasons.

ON THE LIGHT SIDE

New Year Song

Emily Huntington Miller

They say that the year is old and gray,
That his eyes are dim with sorrow;
But what care we, though he pass away?
For the New Year comes tomorrow.

No sighs have we for the roses fled,
No tears for the vanished summer;
Fresh flowers will spring where the old
are dead,
To welcome the glad new comer.

He brings us a gift from the beautiful land
We see, in our rosy dreaming,
Where the wonderful castles of fancy stand
In magical sunshine gleaming.

Then sing, young hearts that are full of cheer,
With never a thought of sorrow;
The old goes out, but the glad young year
Comes merrily in tomorrow.

Predictions

Mr. Matheny wins the Ohio
Lotto and takes seniors on a two-month trip to Hawaii.

Mrs. Willson and Mrs. Lewis wins newspaper and yearbook awards for having best school newspaper and yearbook.

The school board decides to have more vacations and shorter school days.

Mr. Faust demonstrates how to use a hydraulic post-hole digger and strikes oil on the football field.

PHS drills more oil wells and since they get so much money, all students are taken downtown to eat wherever and whenever they like.

CAREER CORNER

Time to Think Ahead to Next Year

As the first semester came to a close, we start planning ahead for next year. For the eighth graders, early March will be the time to begin thinking about class selections for the 1986-87 school year. There will be an orientation to give information and to answer questions these students might have.

In April, ninth, tenth, and eleventh graders will be planning their schedules for next year. Sophomores will be making their decisions about the Vocational School.

Any students who have failed classes need to pay special attention to scheduling in order to meet requirements for graduation. Any student having a question regarding scheduling may contact Mr. Bailey.

ATTENTION FRESHMEN! In the next issue of the paper, Mr. Bailey will give more detailed information about scheduling for freshmen. DON'T MISS IT!

Gone Huntin'

By Eugene Johnson

Well, hunters, there's not much going on in January as far as hunting goes; and still no one has turned in a deer to be printed in the paper.

January hunting seasons are:

Deer (long bow, crossbow)

Closes Jan. 31

Fox - Closes Jan. 31

Rabbit - Closes Jan. 31
Raccoon, Opossum, Skunk, Weasel
Closes Jan. 31

January trapping seasons:

Fox, Opossum, Skunk, Weasel
Closes Jan. 31

Raccoon, Mink, Muskrat
Closes Jan. 31

Beaver - Opens Jan. 15

Deer Facts

There was no deer season in 1961 due to a lack of white-tail deer.

In 1984, there were 66,860 deer taken.

In 1985 there were 98 deer taken the first day of gun season.

There was a 7% decline in deer taken in 1985. In the state of Ohio, 52,488 were taken.

In Wildlife District 5 there was a 10% increase in deer taken.

In Adams County there was 427 deer taken in 1985--that's 22 less than last year.

Love Blinded Me

Her name was Isabelle Lancaster, she was the most beautiful woman I has ever seen in my life. My name is Leonardo Venchie and I'm the owner of the Fox Club. Many people thought of me as a hood but you can't believe every thing you hear on the streets. I just treated life the same way that life treated me. Life treated me rotten. Now don't get me wrong, I enjoyed my life. I started loving life about December 3, 1912. That's when it all started, that was the day I met Isabelle Lancaster. She had the figure of an hourglass. It was love at at first sight. I has just hired her to be my nightclub's newest attraction. Her stage name was Songbird. She drew more people to the Foxclub then any singer or performer before her. And there were many performers in the Foxclub's time.

Well, It was that time of the month when the boys and I went collecting the protection money from the kind people of New York. You see, we offered protection to the ones who owned businesses that were worried about vandals and worse. To them we were a big help. Some of those that refused our services had suddenly fallen ill or dead.

Anyway's, while I was collecting, a couple of the new boys were turning traitor on me and gang. They had secretly been working for the Terence gang. They shot two of my boys and injured three others. I could not let this pass, so I declared open season on the Terence gang and it was all out war. One day, we would kill a couple of their guys and the next day, they would kill a couple of ours. It was getting us nowhere fast. I got a couple of the boys together and we thought out a strategy. We had to make a hit on Terence himself and a couple of his main boys. It wasn't going to be easy. One day we had listened in on a conversation over Terences' phone lines. That was when we heard him make arrangements to get his house painted. All we had to do was get there before the painters did and KABOOM! that would solve everything.

Later that week, we had gone over to the Terence residence a half hour before the painters. Once we were there, we checked the grounds for any guards that could cause us any trouble. We found only five guards on the grounds. They each carried a Tomy-gun. There were only six of us but each of us carried a silencer and a Tomy-gun. We had to make the hit as quietly as we possibly could because we didn't want to make any disturbances or we may arouse any number of men. We had decided to leave only three men working while myself and two other men went to find a way in to get to Mr. Terence himself. We finally found a way to get in but it would mean trying to sneak past two guard dogs, Dobermans. I just hated dogs, especially mean killers. We shot each with the silenced Tomy-gun and ran like mad to the basement door. We made it with no problem. Once in, we found a staircase heading upstairs. But on the way up, we met two men at the top and four more below us; it didn't look good at all. My men and I tried to make a break for it, but I was the only one to escape alive. I was shot though, and it was bad. I knew that one of my boys had snitched on me. I didn't know who it was, but I did know that it wasn't safe to return to the Foxclub. I had to go back and get Isabelle and take her to the mountains with me. At least we could wait there until things could cool down or until the spy could be detected.

Well, Isabelle and I made it safely to my cabin. Everything sounded so perfect. No one could find us out there. No one knew where it was. Our first days there was so wonderful. We made the perfect team. When we were to go back to the city, we were to get married. Fate had other plans for us. The second week we were there, I had found something in her closet that disturbed me greatly. I had found a picture of Mr. Terence and a small forty-five in her dresser. I was hurt. Later that night I confronted her about it. She denied any connection between Mr. Terence and herself. Like a fool, I beleived her.

I guess it was love that made me believe her. That following morning I woke in the presence of Terence, one of his men, and my wife to be. Terence was holding a gun to my head. That very instant I pulled my thirty-eight out from under my pillow and shot Terences' man. Terence and Isabelle ran out the door and I followed behind both of them. I found myself halfway down the staircase where Terence was waiting. The both of them were at the bottom of the staircase and Terence was aiming directly at me. My only hope was to shoot and I did, Terence was dead. Isabelle picked up his gun and aimed it at me. It was a stand-off, either I was to kill her or she was to kill me. Neither of us wanted to pull the trigger. I figured I couldn't have lived with myself if I shot her so I stood there with my arms to my side. Then it happened. Terence threw a knife at the same instant Isabelle was going to pull the trigger. It hit her! My love was dead and Terence followed.

Since then I've been reformed and married a nice lady. I will never forget however, Isabelle and the lesson I learned from her and the life of crime.

The End.

Thought for the day

Happiness is where we find it, but rarely where we seek it.

Has Hog Roast

The Peebles Vo. Ag. department "family" of FFA members, FFA Alumni, and Young Farmers and Wives held a special Hog Roast and Recreation Night on January 20. The purpose of the roast was to provide a final activity in conjunction with the FFA special swine evaluation project which has been in operation since October. The event was held on a regular Young Farmer educational class night so all could participate.

A team of workers prepared a 265 pound hog by roasting it over an 18 hour period. The cooking was supervised by John Fristoe and Burnell McCoy. The Peebles FFA Chapter held a regular business meeting at 6:30 p.m. Following the meeting the entire group of Alumni, FFA and Young Farmers and Wives and their guests enjoyed the meal of pork, baked potatoes, soft drinks, and desserts. A crowd of more than 160 people ate the meal. Following the meal, a period of basketball and wrestling was held in the gym and a movie was shown for those interested.

Hold Speech Contests

The District FFA Public Speaking Contests will be held on January 30 in Hillsboro. The FFA sponsors four divisions of speaking competition for the purpose of helping develop leadership skills in the members. The four divisions are Prepared, Extemporaneous, Beginner Prepared, and FFA Creed.

Members of the Peebles FFA Chapter will compete in each division. Chapter elimination contests will be held on January 24, 27, 28, and 29. Each member is encouraged to compete in at least one division. The winners will receive pins and trophies.

In the Prepared Contests, the students must prepare a written speech that lasts between six and eight minutes. The FFA Creed Contest requires the members to present the official FFA Creed as a speech. In the Extemporaneous division, the students must select a topic and develop a speech during a thirty-minute preparation period. The speech must then last between four and six minutes.

Receives State Silver Emblem

The State FFA Alumni Convention was held on January 11 in Columbus. Alumni members from various chapters met to discuss activities and present awards to individuals and chapters.

Representing the Peebles Alumni Chapter were Phil Swayne, Randy Stevenson, and Diane Nehus. The Peebles Chapter received the State Silver Emblem for its activities during the past year.

Honor Society Offers Scholarship

The Peebles Chapter of the National Honor Society has been busy with the home ball games by selling raffle tickets for large cookies. The proceeds from these raffles go to the Christopher McFarland Memorial Scholarship fund. The next Honor Society meeting will be held on February 4, during 6th period. Discussion at this meeting will include the scholarship. Any senior interested in applying for this scholarship should contact Mrs. Ginn.

The FHA Valentine Court candidates were elected in homerooms on January 24. The candidates will decorate cans and place them in businesses and at school (during home ball games), to collect money. The senior and junior collecting the most money will be crowned Queen and King; the Prince and Princess will be chosen from the sophomore and freshman classes in the same manner.

All money collected will be donated to the Amy Smalley Memorial Research Fund at Children's Hospital in Cincinnati.

The FHA Valentine Court will be announced at the Valentine Dance, February 14, at 8:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. Plaques will be presented to the winners.

Candy Sales Begin

The Senior Beta Club has started their candy sales. The candy bars can be bought from any Beta member for only 50 cents.

In order for the Beta members to attend State Convention, they must sell one case of candy bars and have their hours up to date.

The Senior Beta's are also planning to go to the National Convention in June. This year the Convention will be held in Washington D.C. Only the Beta members who attended State Convention will be eligible to attend National Convention. A deposit of $25.00 will be needed by February 1, for those who plan to attend Nationals. This deposit is non-refundable.

Over Christmas vacation the Lady Indians had some very exciting games. In most cases the girls came out on top, with one exception. First was the Greenfield Holiday Tournament. In the first round they beat Clinton Massie by 18 points, a comfortable win. But in the second and final round, they had some trouble. By the end of the 1st quarter, the score was tied at 10. The girls led the rest of the game with a little scare in the fourth quarter with a final score of 52-49 against Adena. This gave the Lady Indians the championship.

On January 9, the girls traveled to North Adams for a big rivalry game. Going into the game, the Lady Indians were 11-0 and the Devilish Darlings 10-1, losing only to Eastern Brown. There was one of the biggest crowds to ever come out for an Adams County girls' game. As a matter of fact, there was standing room only. The Lady Indians led in the first quarter 9 to 6, but were down by five at half time, 24 to 19. The Lady Indians never could come any closer than 3 points with a final score of 54 to 49, giving the girls their first loss of the season.

On January 16, the Lady Indians traveled to Ripley where they got off to a slow start, being down by one in the first quarter, but managed to be on top by eleven at half time. With Danner in foul trouble and Austin on the bench, Ripley tied the game at 33 at the end of the 3rd quarter. They battled back and forth until there was 7 seconds left with the Lady Indians up by one and the ball out of bounds. Austin threw the ball the length of the court to Danner who topped off the game with a lay-up. The final score was 49 to 46.

The Lady Indians are now ranked 4th in the state.
