Angels Among Us

by Sara Goldie

As the cold air pressed against my face, I began to lose all feeling in my fingers. I shuffled along, wondering where I would sleep on this death stricken winter night.

My heart began to pound with anxiety as thoughts of my past raced through my mind. I could feel the tears coming and as I closed my eyes they dripped from my eyelashes, like raindrops.

For the past four years I had lived on the street, searching the alleys for a place to sleep, scrounging for food, wondering each day if I would make it to the next.

I had been living my life blaming myself for the way that I lived. Though in reality, my mother was the real cause for my troubles.

When I turned four, she divorced my father and moved us to California, claiming that she would be able to find work easier there. But after four months and no work, she moved us again, this time across the country to New York City, using the money my father had given her for child support to fly us there.

School wasn't the greatest. The kids began to laugh at me and call me names. I didn't fit in, so I began to withdraw from the class. The teachers were constantly calling my mother telling her "She is retarded and undisciplined. She needs to be enrolled in a school for the disabled."

Soon it seemed as if the town was against us. Watching them turn their heads as we walked by, the pointing, the whispering -- it was unbearable.

At first I was filled with confusion. I didn't understand why everyone looked at us the way they did, why they pointed and stared at us.

For the eight years that followed I continued to be tormented and rejected. But after living in shame I finally came to know the real reason why everyone had looked down on me and treated me like a low-life.

My mother was a prostitute. For eight years she knew the pain that I had felt. Never having a friend to turn to, or someone to talk to. Eight long years of knowing and turning a blind eye, pretending to be so innocent.

At that moment I hated my mother. I hated her for ruining my life. I hated her for the shame and the worthlessness she had made me feel.

So that evening as my mother arrived home from work, I stood in the doorway awaiting her arrival. As the doorknob began to turn I watched the door start to open and my mother slipped inside quietly as to keep from waking me. Then from behind her came a man who appeared large in size and twice the size of my mother. I cannot describe the disgust or the shame I felt at that moment. I could feel the anger bursting from within me, but I said nothing. I kept quiet and decided to approach her later so I turned and walked down the hall toward my bedroom.

Lying upon the cold mattress I stared at the ceiling allowing my tears to soak the pillow on which I laid my head. In the hall I could hear the laughter of my mother and her guest as they crept up the stairs toward the spare bedroom. The more I heard their laughter the harder I cried. Finally, when morning arrived, I decided to approach her. Greeting her at the breakfast table, I started by asking, "So, how was your night?"

"Tiring," she spoke softly.

"Yeah, I'm sure it was!" I replied, revealing my anger through my voice.

"Listen here young lady, I'm your mother and I will not allow you to speak to me this way. I have raised you. I've kept a roof over your head and you should respect me for that."

"Why should I respect you? You have no respect for anyone and you don't deserve any for yourself! You've treated me as second best for thirteen years. I'm tired of being ashamed. I'm tired of being worthless! You've controlled my life since the day I was born, and I'm sick of it! It's my life mom, not your's!"

"Well, maybe you should move out on your own. You have your own opinions and like you said, it's your life, not mine."

The whole argument had ended in a result I had not planned on. Being only thirteen years old, I had no idea what to do or where to go.

So I packed my bags and headed out, not having the slightest idea what to do next.

PHS Poets

The Shadow
In the forest
dark and dreary
stays a creature
smart and weary.

In a tree
a shadow waits for the special time and date.

When the creature walks around the shadow can hear that special sound.

The shadow sees the creature move
what should he do,
what should he do...

Brandon Seaman

I used to be a fly in the sky
until a flies water
hit me in the eye.

Now I am a fly
no more because my wings are torn and sore.

Will You Make it to the Top?

1. Your school's offering an elective course in videography which you're really interested in. The only hitch is, the teacher has a rep for being a real beast. Do you sign up for the class?
  - a. Yes, you like a challenge.
  - b. No, you can't stand a mean teacher.
  - c. No, you'd rather take a class you know you can ace.
  - d. Sure, if anyone can tame that beastly teach, it's you.
2. You've got a date in 20 minutes, and your mom just reminded you that you promised to go through your closet for stuff to sell at a family yard sale the next day. What do you do?
  - a. Call your date and tell them you're running a little late, then go through your closet.
  - b. Hand your mom a holey sweatshirt you were going to throw out.
  - c. Cancel your date, and start a major closet overhaul.
  - d. Suggest that you get up extra early tomorrow morning to help your mom out.
3. A local recycling center needs volunteers. You've heard that the best volunteers may be offered a paying job after a few weeks. You'd like to work there, but you need to make money. Do you agree to be a volunteer?
  - a. Sure, as long as the prospects of a paying job look promising.
  - b. Yes, if they could be flexible about the hours.
  - c. No, you need something that's more certain.
  - d. Probably, especially if you liked the people there.
4. No matter what you end up doing in life, it's important that you:
  - a. prove yourself and get recognition.
  - b. use lots of your own ideas.
  - c. work at your own pace.
  - d. be around other people.
5. The word below that best describes you would be:
  - a. hard-working
  - b. adventurous
  - c. patient
  - d. friendly
6. You have a science project due on Friday, but you'll get extra credit if you turn in your project early. Do you go for it?
  - a. Of course, anything for extra credit.
  - b. Maybe, if you were really into the project.
  - c. No, your teacher might start expecting too much from you.
  - d. Yes, you like to impress your teachers when you can.
7. You've just joined the homecoming committee and you've been given the grunt work -- like going out to buy chicken wire for the floats. Do you complain?
  - a. Yes, but not without offering to do some other important job.
  - b. Yes, you joined to have fun, not be somebody's slave.
  - c. No, what's the point? Somebody's got to do it.
  - d. No, you don't want to make any enemies.

SCORING

Add up the number of A's, B's, C's and D's, then look here to find out if you'll be a success story.

Mostly A's: Ambitious

No doubt about it! You're a hard-working person who'll really go places.

How You'll Get Ahead: You aren't afraid to take on the most challenging assignment. Teachers admire your energy and enthusiasm and reward you for it--big time! Your never lose sight of your goals.

Weakness to Watch: You may come on too strong sometimes.

Mostly B's: Independent

If you want to make it, nothing will stop you. But chances are your job won't be the most important thing in your life.

How You'll Get Ahead: You manage to solve problems that stump everybody else. Somehow, you always find the fastest way to get things done. You're always involved in some exciting adventure.

Weakness to Watch: Others may think you're a know-it-all.

Mostly C's: Reliable

Efficient and trustworthy, you'll move onward and upward at your own pace, which may be a little slow.

How You'll Get Ahead: Because you don't expect to become a superstar overnight, you can accept day-to-day drudgery--without complaining. People can count on you. You're known for your patience.

Weakness to Watch: You don't stand up for yourself enough.

Mostly D's: Charming

Your helpful attitude will take you where you want to go--but you'll have to buckle down and work hard once you get there.

How You'll Get Ahead: Because of your knack for making others feel good, you're bound to be popular. People can lean on you. Your motto: "It's nice to be important, but it's more important to be nice."

Weakness to Watch: You may be so nice that others will take advantage of you.

Are we starting a new boxing team? Just ask Eli D., David S., Lanelle M., Crystal D., Clinton D., Brandon E., Stacy K., and Briana T.

Hey Mandy W., we hear that new baby girl of yours is awfully cute.

Meredith W., did you have a nice fall at cheerleading practice?

Vicky W., are you and Jay M. going to try out for the new wrestling team?

Hey Chrissy E., who's the man of the hour?

Peggy A., are you going to start charging for your transportation services?

Alaina W., we all think you need to practice on your driving.

Jurina W., how has your breathing been lately?

Nicci N., does your mother know that you miss every Friday?

Brad F., do you like your carpet or do you just like to headsurf.

Lanelle M., Alaina thinks that you should learn how to operate a microwave.

Is there a certain cheerleader that thinks she owns the cheerleading squads?

Jeremy C., is it necessary to take up two parking spaces every day?

CHOIR PLANS CONCERTS

The PHS Choir has many upcoming performances in the month of December. The first performance will be held on homecoming night, December 6, 1996; they will be performing a song entitled, "Time Gone." Their second performance will be held on Sunday, December 15, 1996, at 3:00 p.m. This will be their Christmas concert where they will be performing several Christmas Carols. The choir's final performance in the month of December will be during the high school boys basketball game on December 17, 1996, where they will sing the National Anthem before the game. Everyone is welcome to attend and support the PHS choir throughout the month of December.

BETA TO PERFORM AT STATE CONVENTION

The Talent Committee held their first meeting on November 15 in the library. This meeting determined the theme of the talent show that will be held at the State Beta Convention in April. The theme is "Saturday Night Fever." We all are extremely excited to start the practices due to the large participation from the members and the levels of talent. We have many talented singers and musicians on the committee. We are planning to start early so we can have a solid routine and time to get costumes made.

The next meeting was held November 20. The members were instructed to bring all music and other 70's paraphernalia. A large turn out made the meeting very successful.

FFA MEMBERS ATTEND DISTRICT MEETING

Amber Ison and Lanelle McCoy attended a district nine officers meeting that was held at Wilmington High School in October. They met the Ohio FFA president and secretary. They also met the district nine president.

At the meeting the girls learned many different kinds of fund raisers and group projects that other schools from the district have used in the past years.

The meeting got Amber and Lanelle more motivated and involved. Since then the officers have planned a food and clothes drive, a farmers' application breakfast and many activities for the FFA members.

The meeting was a lot of fun and educational at the same time. This helped the FFA to improve the club.

Annual Turkey Bowl Held

On Wednesday, November 20, the annual Turkey Bowl was held. It was the mighty Health & Fitness team matched up against a combination of Anatomy and Band students. Going into the game Health & Fitness had an impressive all-time record of 14-1, but the Anatomy/Band team had put together a talented group of players. Players such as Adam Weber, Paul Worley, Shane Milton, Michael Cross, Nathan Elkins, and Todd Pierce presented a challenge to the dominant Health & Fitness team.

At the start of the game Health & Fitness jumped out to a quick lead as quarterback Yancy Gordley connected with Craig Fitzpatrick for a touch down pass. Anatomy/Band got off to a slow start due to the young inexperienced Paul Worley, who threw two interceptions on their next two offensive possessions. Shortly after Health & Fitness regained possession, Yancy Gordley threw a pass to Brian Cluxton, who ran it in for the second touchdown, that ended up being the decisive touchdown.

Anatomy/Band made a good game out of it when Adam Weber threw a long bomb to Shane Milton for a touchdown. But the older, more experienced Health & Fitness team ended up being too much for Anatomy/Band, by winning with a final score of 2-1.

Highlights for Health & Fitness: Yancy Gordley, two touchdown passes and one defensive interception. Kurt Beckham had two interceptions. Jason Newman also had an interception. Craig Fitzpatrick and Brian Cluxton paced Health and Fitness with one touchdown reception each. Health & Fitness improved their all-time record to 15-1.

Girls Varsity and Reserve Scrimmages

On Saturday, November 16th, the Varsity and Reserve Girls attended a scrimmage at Preble County, Shawnee. They each played four quarters. The Varsity won three out of their four quarters. The Reserve won two out of the four quarters that they played. Preble County is in the same division as Peebles.

Both teams played exceptional games and played their hardest. Both teams have bright futures for this year.

The Lady Indians' first game was on Monday the 25th against Fayetteville. Varsity won by a score of 76 to 56. Leading scorer for the Lady Indians was Jessica Fraley with 21; she also pulled down 14 rebounds and dished out 3 assists. Paula Scott also added 16 points, had 8 rebounds, and 3 assists. Erica Puckett had 10 points, 6 rebounds, and 3 assists. Amber Ison scored 9 points to go along with 12 rebounds and 2 assists. Molly Stine also had 9 points, 4 rebounds, and 3 assists.

Boys Win at Preview

On Friday November 22, the Peebles boys played in the annual Preview that was held at West Union. The Indians played one quarter each against Western Latham and West Union. In one quarter of play against Western, the Indians, led by Yancy Gordley, took control from the start. They were simply too much for Western as they crushed them 18-3.

In the second quarter of action the Indians faced the West Union Dragons. Peebles got off to a slow start due to the Dragons' pressure defense. After three minutes of play West Union led 8-2. The Indians fought their way back and at the end of the quarter the Indians beat the Dragons by a score of 20-11.

I predict a successful season for this year's team. They are experienced and are hungry for a winning season. They are a dedicated, hard-working group of players, who work well together as a team.

8th Grade Boys Basketball

The 8th grade boys have been red hot the past two weeks winning three out of four games, bringing their record to 7-4.

On November 14 the boys played at Latham and won 54-36. Leading scorers were Seth Smalley with 25, followed by Lee Pertuset with 17. Smalley also led rebounds with 6.

On November 18 the Manchester Greyhounds came to town and the Indians had a sound victory winning 49-39. Leading scorers were Tommy Newman with 14 and Chad Wilson with 11. Seth Smalley led rebounds with 8.

Whiteoak traveled to Peebles on November 21 only to get beat by 16 points with a final score of 47-29. We had 3 players with points in double digits: Chad Wilson led with 13 followed by Seth Smalley with 12 and finally Aaron Swango with 10. We also had three leading rebounders: John Nichols led with 7 and Seth Smalley tied with Ben Shoemaker at 5 each.

Finally the boys went to Eastern on November 23 and had a hard fought loss. The boys were down 28-16 at the half, but they really stepped it up after half-time only to come up short 6 points with a final score of 54-48.

7th Grade Girls Finish with a Win

Congratulations to the girls 7th grade basketball team on their win over Lynchburg 38 to 21. Leading scorers were Ashlee Ryan with 12 points and Rebecca Myers with 9 points. The girls finished their regular season play with 12 wins and only 1 loss. Thanks girls for a GREAT SEASON!!

MIND

STRESS

STRESS - 1: pressure; strain 2: a factor that induces bodily or mental tension.

Stress, something everyone has, and wants to get rid of. Stress can cause the human race to do things that we would not normally do. Stress can cause your hair to turn gray and it can cause medical problems. These medical problems that stress can cause are heart attacks, high blood pressure, anxiety attacks, nervous breakdowns, and frustrations. This is definitely not good. So here are some ways to relieve stress: Eat foods that are high in magnesium, such as lentils, soy and avocado.

- Avoid sweets!
- Meditate for at least 20 minutes.
- Use aromatherapy bath salts and incense.
- Soak in a bath full of nice smelling bath oil.

(More stress relieving tips in next issue.)

BODY

TIPS TO AVOID A BAD HAIR DAY

Part hair on the opposite side or down the middle for a guaranteed "Hey chick did you do something different with your do?" from a pal.

Get that mop off your face with a headband (especially good if you're trying to grow out your bangs.)

Glam up mega-short hair by slicking it way back with gel when it is wet.

To get rid of that stick-straight hair, use a temporary home perm like Dep's curls for a change to give it bounce and wave.

If you want your curls to calm down for the day, try blowing them out sleek with a super straightener, such as Charles Booth Straightening Balm.

SOUL

IF YOU WANT TO LOSE WEIGHT...

You have to change your eating and exercise habits-permanently. Your diet should be healthful and balanced. This is especially important during your teens, when your body is growing and changing.

Don't try to take weight off fast-it won't last! Go for a slow but sustained weight loss of half a pound to two pounds per week. More than that, and you're losing muscle, not fat! Also, avoid hopping on and off the scale, as it can become an obsession. Besides, natural daily weight fluctuations or not losing as fast as you had hoped can cause you to overreact and binge. Your best bet: Weigh in once a week.

Listening Skills A Must!!!

Points to Remember

Why should you listen?

- Work, school and family life, and good friendships involve listening. They're inseparable and an integral part of success in each.
- Lazy listening is a hidden cost to business, personal life and school.
- Identify the purpose for listening, entertaining, providing critical data, etc.
- We can improve listening with desire, motivation and willingness to make a constructive change.

Key Elements of Listening

- Hear the message. Listen to both verbal and nonverbal information.
- Interpret the message. A good interpretation is a match-up of meaning between the speaker and the listener.
- Evaluate the message. The listener's opinion should be based on all available information. Ask questions.
- Respond to the message. Good listening means giving the speaker an appropriate response, verbally and/or nonverbally. Behavior reflects attitude.
- How we look and act as listeners determines our listening style.
- Most people aren't good listeners because it is a learned skill.
- A good listener encourages positive results.
- We listen best when there is a payoff or a penalty.
- Personal listening awareness is the key to constructive change.

Top Ten Tips for Tip-Top Listening

1. Take notes. They add retention.
2. Listen now, report later. Plan to tell someone what you heard.
3. Learn to want to listen. You must use your DISC -- Desire, Interest, Self-discipline and Concentration.
4. Be present and watch the tendency to daydream.
5. Anticipate excellence. We get good information more often when we expect it.
6. Become a "whole body" listener by listening not only with your ears but with your eyes, heart, mind and intuition.
7. Build rapport with the speaker by pacing.
8. Control your emotional "hot buttons" and try not to react emotionally.
9. Control internal and external distraction. Focus.
10. Give the gift of listening. Listening is a skill and a gift. Give generously.

MOVIE REVIEW

RANSOM

RATED R

I don't go to the movies too often lately, so I'm glad this time I got my money's worth (for the first time since I saw A TIME TO KILL). I loved this movie from top to bottom. Fantastic directing by Ron (Opie Taylor) Howard, an intriguing plot, and a downright spiffy cast of actors are what you'll get if you go see this movie, which I promise you is worth your time. It's ALMOST as good as the FUGITIVE. Almost.

I'm not going to tell you anything about the plot, because if you don't already know what it's about, I don't want to ruin the movie for you. Mel Gibson and Gary Sinise (Lt. Dan from Forrest Gump) put on Oscar-worthy performances, and Ron Howard will get his nod from the Academy when the time rolls around.

This movie keeps you involved, has strong believable characters, never slows down its tempo, and at the same time is not loaded down with action. It definitely gets a recommendation from me.
